Well, I hate to admit it but this aging thing is the pits!! Keeping track of logon names and passwords is getting more complicated and I am finding it frustrating and difficult. So let's do some brainstorming and come up with some techniques.

One concept is to use the same password and logon for each site but to do a slight variation. Number the websites for which you need logon information in your notebook or rolodex (you do keep one don't you???) and then add the number to the front or back of the logon name and the password. Example: logon is marykay and password is lucky. For the number 1 in your file system, logon becomes 1marykay and password becomes 1lucky. The second entry in your database is number 2 and so the logon is 2marykay and the password is 2lucky for that entry. As time goes on, you will be able to remember the ones you most often use. The others you can just look up.

Another idea is to use a letter that may coincide with the site: Using rootsweb, the logon is rmarykay and the password is rlucky.

Another possibility is to use the same logon and password for all noncritical sites (those not containing personal or financial information) and then change it yearly by adding some number after or before. Of course for critically sensitive sites (online banking for example), use an unidentifiable logon and password combining letters and numbers. This makes it more difficult to hack into. Be sure to write it down and put it in a very secure place. Now send me your ideas and we will put them in the newsletter.

A New Tool for Researchers and Writers: The American Library Association has a nice new tool that I think most of us interested in publishing will find useful for determining whether a book or other item is potentially "in Copyright" status or "in the public domain" Follow the link <http://librarycopyright.net/digitalslider/>

In the March 2008 of Family Tree Magazine, page 47 has an article on "Genetic Counseling". Since our program this month will be a panel discussion on the topic of DNA testing, I thought it helpful to point out this article for our members.

Some Websites of interest*:

Archives Records Information Access System (ARIAS) <http://www.digitalarchives.state.pa.us/archive.asp> This site has some wonderful military archives for the state of Pennsylvania.

This ties in with our program this month. <http://www.isogg.org/dpc.htm> This site lists the pros and cons of various DNA Genealogy sites.

Did you check out the new site that I mentioned last month for the LDS Family Search site? <http://labs.familysearch.org> Check in often as the site is continually updated and improved during the beta testing phase. It is an amazing search site.

EDUCATIONALLY SPEAKING

by Laura McCoy,

Some of the biggest health advances are in genetics - and finding the best ways to help patients may lie in knowing their family health histories. Top killers like stroke, diabetes and cancer are produced by genetic and nongenetic factors, so having family with those diseases can heighten your risk.

The Surgeon General wants Americans to compile a family health history and is even offering a free computer program to help guide you along. Go to www.hhs.gov/familyhistory for the new booklet, "My Family Health Portrait."

We have a new beginner class scheduled for two Saturdays - Oct 18 and 25. There will be different classes on each date so plan to attend both sessions. The hours are 9am until 3:30. Please bring a bag lunch for each session. These will be held at our Genealogy Library, 1701 Menlo Ave. Napa. If you have any questions or wish to sign up, please contact Laura McCoy at 427-0517. We must have advance registration and the fee is $25 for both sessions.

Happy Hunting,
Laura

Eighteenth Annual Wine Drawing

A festive party was held at the Senior Center the evening of August 21st to celebrate the completion of a successful annual fund raising drive. For six weeks members have been selling raffle tickets for prizes of bottles of premium Napa Valley wines. Tickets have been purchased by friends and relatives and by many tourists who came through the Wine Train Station. Now was the time for the drawings.

To begin the evening there was a light supper of a variety delicious foods accompanied by wines. For entertainment, a harpist with the delightful name of Angel (Simmons) played softly in the background. Angel responded to requests from her audience for folk melodies.

(www.myspace.com/angelfirestar)

President Dick Bruechert conducted the drawing by requesting various members to come forward and pull a ticket out of the revolving drum. Because of generous donations by vintners a total of sixteen major prizes were won. The top prize of fifty bottles of premium wines went to Treena Badin of Sarasota, Florida. Several members of NVG&B were also lucky. A complete list of winners is elsewhere in the newsletter. Finally, a number of door prizes of wine were drawn by members and guests present.

The evening was a great success.

“The Early California Project”

An Article by Tim Abney generously alerts us to the Early California Population Project. This project is a database of transcribed California mission records from 1769 to 1850 for baptism, marriages, and death entries. The task of entering this huge amount of information was accomplished by grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the California State Library. And we are thankful.

To find this database use the Huntington Museum & Library website: <http://www.huntington.org/>

From the main page—

1. Click on the tab “Research and Education”
2. On the next window at the left of the screen click on “Research Resources”
3. Click on Early California Population Project in the article next to the mission picture.
4. The click on your choice on the left.
5. To actually search the database, you will need to register by setting up login information but the info is free.
6. On the search page, under “Record Type” choose the database you wish to search. Then fill in the pull down menus for criterion and enter your search in the value (ex. “Criterion”—I choose groom’s name; “Value”—I chose a surname.)

Remember: this is primarily a list of persons using the California Missions so mostly Californios and Native American ancestors will be found.

A toast to say thank you to all our members who assisted with the many tasks that contributed to the success of our 18th Annual Wine Drawing. This is our only fundraiser for the year. The funds raised by this event allow the Society to supply our members with the services and programs of our Society.

We are fortunate to have our own library dedicated to research in genealogy with over 10,000 books, CDs, and periodicals. It is very unique among genealogy societies. I have personally investigated many other collections in the care of genealogy societies and can say that we have one of the most impressive privately controlled collection that I have ever seen.
